“Come for the lime ... Discover the Music!”

Formerly of the renowned group, H2O PHLO, Jason “Fridge” Seecharan is now a solo artist seeking to make his own mark upon the music industry. Bubbling with creativity and with a great following and progressive momentum built upon recent collaborations with: two-time National Calypso Monarch, Roderick “Chucky” Gordon, “KKay” Joseph, Tim Starr and veteran bard, Timothy “The Baron” Watkins Jr, among others, “Fridge” has just released a thought-provoking reggae song entitled, “I Wanna Know”.

“Carnival is over,” said Seecharan, “and I know that’s normally the time when we look around and put a bit more thought into our actions as a people. It’s Lent for all the Catholics and Christians also, so I felt it was a good time to send this message out and get people thinking about the society we’re living in and a part of – and how our own thoughts and actions play a major part in what happens day to day.

“We all know the crime situation is terrible, but who are the criminals really? Is it a bunch of people that we don’t know who came from some other country? Or is it our own family members, friends and neighbors, sometimes even that person in the mirror is guilt also, so how do we start to make a change and who do we start with – as the late great Michael (Jackson) said: it starts with the man in the mirror really!”

Apart from his scheduled music releases, Seecharan is gearing up for a feature performance alongside talented vocalist, Moricia Cagan and with backing from Clifford Charles and his orchestra, as part of the fourteenth annual “Jazz Artistes On The Greens” concert festival, which is scheduled for Saturday, March 12 at Farm Road, St Joseph.

“It’s really amazing how much talent we have in this country,” Secharan remarked, “and beautiful to see and hear and experience how our artistes can defy all those labels and boxes and genre stereotypes. Of course, I love Jazz – to me it’s one of the most relaxing forms of music to listen to and to perform, plus one of my favorite artistes is George Benson also – and of course, I love R&B, even as I love Reggae and Soca also – at the end of the day, it’s all music and once you love good music, those labels don’t really matter too much...”

“So, Moricia is a great vocalist and a good friend of mine and we teamed up to put together a very special set for you guys to enjoy at JAOTG 2016. It’s an honor and a pleasure for us to perform there and we look forward to seeing all the Jazz and good music lovers assembled on The Greens come March 12.”

With Valentine’s Day just passed, Secharan is pleased to have thrilled audiences at the Hyatt Regency and various casinos around the nation on Valentine’s Day with his sweet melodic vocals and powerful positive message of love. Now “Fridge” says he’s doubling up on his message of love and asking all citizens to share more love daily:

“Love comes in so many forms,” he advised. “It often takes a lot less energy to spread love than any other emotion, but somehow we still hesitate and we find ourselves sharing all the anger and confusion and disdain that we practice and make habits out of. . . Why can’t we make a habit of giving and sharing and loving more instead? It might sound corny, but the effect of doing that will echo loudly throughout your days and even your own mind and heart because the more you give is the more you will receive. At the end of the day, love is what I try to promote – and what we all should be sharing – to/with the world.”
